Acupuncture Clinic Edmonton - Therapy utilizing magnets and the magnetic field which surrounds living things is a kind of alternative or complementary medicine. Otherwise referred to as magnotherapy, magnet therapy or magneto-therapy, electromagnetic devices or permanent static magnets are placed onto the bodies of client by practitioners.

Advocates of this health therapy have purported different health benefits, though there are no scientific papers backing or disproving the effects. Benefits comprise: accelerated healing of wounds, increased vitality and increased energy. Some practitioners say that different health benefits can be attained based on where the magnet is positioned on the body.

Various advocates and practitioners believe that individuals who forgo using magnets can be subjected to an avoidable feeling of discomfort, illness and unease, or that non users are more prone to suffer from malaise. These practitioners define depression as "Magnetic Field Deficiency Syndrome," then again; many professionals deny the validity of this condition. Many medical doctors and health experts completely deny the effectiveness of magnetic therapy all together.

Benefits of magnetic therapy are said to include an enhanced circulatory system. In fact, blood proteins called hemoglobin, carry oxygen and are weakly diamagnetic. This means that hemoglobin could create a magnetic field in opposition to an externally applied magnetic field. Then again, it is believed that the magnets which are utilized in magnetic therapy and in the products related are very weak to have any affect at all on the blood circulation in the body or circulatory flow.

There are lots of individuals who practice or undergo therapy, although there is little to no evidence supporting this type of therapy. Various people believe that magnetic therapy functions by way of a placebo effect, meaning people who participate in magnetic therapy simply feel happier, healthier and stronger as they have been told that the particular therapy will provide them with health benefits.

Practically the whole industry is based on the sale of products to which the consumer could put on. There are lots of magnetic products available. Products include everything from water which has been magnetized to blankets woven with magnetic material, magnetic mattresses, magnetic straps which are designed to fit around the midsection, ankles and wrists; magnetic shoe insoles as well as different types of magnetic jewelry, especially bracelets.
